BARKLEY WINS

Senator Barkley won an emphatic victory in the primary last Saturday for a third term in the United States Senate.

By its vote Kentucky has given full and complete endorsement to Mr. Barkley for his loyalty to President Roosevelt and his governmental policies.

Governor Chandler, whether he liked it or not, had the United support of President Roosevelt's enemies, and much as Kentucky admires her Governor, she was not ready to give aid to, and encourage opposition to the President she loves.

Governor Chandler has acknowledged his defeat, congratulated his opponent and assured him of whole hearted support in the fall election.

Senator Barkley naturally is elated over his victory and will go into the fall campaign confident of victory and back to Washington in January with a determination to be of even greater service to his country and his state during his next term in the Senate.

LOANS FOR MORGAN COUNTY

Kentucky will have a 250 percent increase in funds for tenant purchase loans, to help tenants become owners, for this year, July 1, 1938, to June 30, 1939, according to figures received by Mr. Earl Mayhew, State Director of the Farm Security Administration.

Mr. Mayhew has been advised by FSA Director, George S. Mitchell, Raleigh, North Carolina, that $835,150 has been allotted to Kentucky as compared with $334,060 for last year.

For economy in administration, Tenant Purchase loans last year was limited to eleven counties in this state where it was considered good farms could be had at a fair cost and where a high degree of tenancy was found. The program has now been expanded into additional counties on the same basis.

The Farm Tenant Program is being carried on, along with FSA's regular Rehabilitation Program, by the Farm Security Administration, in cooperation with a State FSA Advisory Committee; and applications for these loans are passed upon in the counties by a County Committee of three farmers who certify as to applicant's character and ability to own and manage a farm.

Mr. F. H. Byars, County FSA Supervisor has been officially notified that Morgan County has been designated by the Secretary of Agriculture as one of the counties in which loans will be made to purchase farms for tenants. Mr. Byars states that application forms and instructions will be received by him not later than August 15 and he will begin taking applications Wednesday, August 17, and will take applications each Wednesday and Saturday morning until Saturday, September 17. No applications will be taken after Saturday, September 17, at noon.

Only sharecroppers, share tenants, or operating tenants, and farm laborers are eligible for Tenant Purchase loans. Persons owning farms are not eligible for these loans.

AS IT SHOULD HAVE BEEN

To the Voters of Morgan County:

The primary election is now over and Senator Barkley has been re-nominated by a large majority. This, of course, was appreciated by nearly all persons who were in close touch with the situation and the result is as it should have been. There was no justifiable reason for removing from the Senate Senator Barkley who stands high with the President and the Nation and putting in his place one who had had very little legislative experience, regardless of how satisfactory may be his services as Governor.

I have never served as chairman of any campaign where there were as many persons who volunteered their service and assistance as in this contest. The loyalty of the masses of the people to Senator Barkley could not be broken. I want to extend to all my sincere thanks for the assistance rendered me in carrying forward this fight and to assure you that I deeply appreciate your service, and especially do I want to thank the women whose help to me was invaluable.

Very truly yours,

W. M. GARDNER, CHAIRMAN.

NOT VERY FREE

It is the common error on the part of the people of the United States to assume that the nations of South America are democratic and that they respect the same "rights" that we stress in this country.

Such, however, is not the fact. There are few instances of free voting south of the United States. Usually, the government in power makes things hot for all opponents. Free speech is not thoroughly established and freedom of the press exceptional.

As an example, the Bolivian Congress recently passed a law giving the President the right to control and suppress the national press of the extreme right until a new law could be passed that would give "full liberty" to the newspapers which, "by their economic and social set-up," are the "true mouthpieces of public opinion."

Can the reader imagine such a law operating in the United States? Can you imagine it in effect in any country that lays claim to constitutional government, with any ideal of liberty or freedom of speech.

VISITORS FROM ILLINOIS

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Thomas and Mr. and Mrs. Willard Thomas and son Johnny, of Deland Ill., visited their daughter and sister, Mrs. Mort Neal, and family, of Neal Valley, and expect to return home today. They were accompanied by Mrs. Nettie Prater, also of Deland, Ill., who visited her mother, Mrs. Milt Reed, of Neal Valley and brother, W. D. Reed, of West Liberty.

Mort Neal Jr., who has been working in Illinois, came in with his grandparents to visit home folks and return with them to his work.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

Looking ahead is good advice if you plan to leap.

Modern economic puzzle—big crops and less money for producers.

Don't forget: You can do a lot of good if you don't care who gets the credit.

You will have a better opinion of bill collectors if you pay your debts promptly.

There are some things as easy to remember as your own name, if you want to remember.

It seems to us that freight rates, all over the country, should be based on service rendered.

The strict enforcement of traffic regulations is one way to be sure that highway accidents will not kill so many people.

You accomplish very little by announcing the motives of an individual; if there is something wrong, say it; if there is something right, say what it is?

So far as we are concerned the system of financing that is popularly referred to as the "extortion plan" is well-named.

West Liberty may not be the largest municipality in the nation but it can be the best, so far as its people are concerned.

The average newspaper is a good newspaper but many editors don't know how to sell it to the people of their community.

If you expect the greatest pleasure and satisfaction out of life you must be willing and anxious to work for other people's benefit.

FARMERS' COLUMN

A STAND-UP STRIKE

Hens sometimes decide on a stand-up strike, along toward the end of a hot summer. Poultry experts at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture tell why old biddy makes up her mind to quit. Here are the reasons:

Lack of balanced feeding; too many non-producing hens in the flock; lice and mites; insufficient cool, fresh drinking water; the heat. Nothing can be done about the weather; but the hens can be provided with proper feed, an abundance of fresh water, shade, and kept free from lice and mites.

Early molters should be culled out and sold, say the experts. Few early molters will come back into production soon enough to be profitable. Likewise, sell all male birds not wanted for breeding next season, and also sell all brooding hens.

It usually is necessary to cull the pullets as well as the old birds. Keep only those birds that have made rapid growth, that are well feathered and are healthy and vigorous.

Clean the poultry houses often and well. Clean and scald or disinfect all drinking vessels. Prepare to exercise precaution against chickenpox, canker and roup which attack many flocks in the fall.

LOSS IN MARKETING

Despite improved methods for handling livestock, more than 9 million animals are injured yearly in marketing, with a loss estimated at $12,000,000. Kentucky's share in this loss is not known, but the College of Agriculture at Lexington puts it at several thousand dollars.

The National Live Stock Prevention Board says that at the extensive use of trucks in marketing livestock has tended to increase losses. Trucks are overloaded, different kinds of stock are crowded together in the same truck, without partitions; improper bedding used; animals injured in loading and unloading, and large losses incurred by the brutal use of clubs and canes.

Partitions are recommended where cattle, hogs or sheep are transported in one truck. Filling a truck with cattle, then crowding in hogs and sheep, should be avoided. Loading chutes should be substantial and carefully placed so the stock can go from the pen into the truck without injury. Canvas covers are useful in cold or wet weather, or to protect stock from sun in hot weather.

Farmers are urged to employ only reliable truck drivers, who own good trucks, load and unload with care, and drive carefully.

MEETING DATES

In order that each farmer cooperating in the farm program may know just what to do that he may earn full payment, we have prepared a statement showing tobacco allotments, if any, depleting goal, and soil-building goal for each man's farm. These statements will be given out to farmers at the meetings listed below.

We will also explain the soil-building practices that may be carried out in earning full payment. Ways of financing the carrying out of these practices will be explained also. It is certainly hoped that every farmer in the county will attend one of these meetings and receive full information for carrying out program. Farmers may make application for fertilizer at these meetings.

WASHINGTON NOTES

WAR SUPPLIES

During the first year of the conflict between Japan and China American firms sold more than $20,000,000 worth of war supplies, with China buying $12,559,74 worth war materials, mostly airplanes, motors and accessories, and Japan, $7,664,413. It is noted that Japanese purchases have increased at a rapid rate so that during the last six months Japan has been a bigger buyer by several hundred thousand dollars. No report is yet available to determine the effect of Secretary Hull's statement on June 11th, seeking to discourage manufacturers from shipping planes to countries which engage in bombing civilian populations. This advice, if followed, would materially reduce Japanese purchases in this country.

WPA

Officials are watching WPA relief rolls which they hope will be reduced by improved business conditions. Since last October, the WPA list has increased every week until this month more than 2,850,000 persons were on its payrolls.

MEMORIES

Memories of scandals connected with the handling of alien property in the United States in 1921 came back with the decision of the Federal Court of Appeals that a Swiss company must pay the United States Government $7,000,000 on a fraudulent claim and the same amount as interest. The claim was recommended by Thomas W. Miller, Alien Property Custodian, who was later convicted as a result of the transaction.

BONUS

Since Congress authorized payment of the bonus in the summer of 1936 the veterans have spent 82 per cent of their adjusted compensation, according to Treasury statistics. Of the $1,800,000,000 in bonds distributed, all have been exchanged for cash except $315,000,000.

FOR WOMEN

Abroad program for the rehabilitation of unattached, jobless and penniless women, especially those over 40 years of age, is being studied by government officials of the Department of Labor.

FOREIGN TRADE

The foreign trade of this country is showing an increasingly favorable excess of exports over imports. For the first half of the year, exports were $631,000,000 above imports. Agricultural exports gained 29 per cent over 1937 and agricultural imports dropped 47 per cent. Total trade was slightly larger in quantity.

TO BE BETTER

Leading economists of the nation in a recent poll, gave a "con-sensus" opinion that business will be better in the remainder of this year and that government spending and lending will aid recovery.

NEW NICKELL

The new model for the Jefferson five-cent piece has been approved by the Treasury Department and will replace the Buffalo-Indian head piece in use for the past quarter of a century.

MISSING

Some 225,309 persons were reported missing last year in the United States, with 2,158 amnesia victims recorded. Of the missing, 16,141 are not located, and all but 118 amnesia victims have been identified.

GOLD

The outward movement of gold which started last fall has been reversed and the second quarter of 1938 saw gold imports of $124,590,000, at the price of $35 an ounce. Mexico and Japan have shipped gold here in July. Since March, 1937, Japan has sent $329,400,000 worth of gold into the United States.

SURPRISE

The Girl Scout Troop and their leader, Mrs. J. B. Nickell, planned a rather unique farewell party for Miss Betty Steele, Friday evening.

Miss Betty being a scout in Columbus, Ohio, worked with the troop here while visiting her aunt. She went to Mrs. Nickell's about 8 p.m. for her scout record. The girls rushed out of another room and surprised Betty. Mrs. Nickell told them to follow a cord which led them upstairs and down around chairs and other furniture, upstairs again until they had an immense ball. Finally the cord ended in a trunk with a shower of beautiful handkerchiefs for Betty.

Miss Betty has endeared herself to every one who made her acquaintance. The girls all wish her a happy school year.

WISCONSIN VISITORS

Visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Ketterhagen for the week of August 1st were: Messrs. Harold and Elmer Ketterhagen, Misses Claire Ketterhagen, Elizabeth Kojis and Cecelia Crowley of Burlington, Wisconsin.

While on their visit here one afternoon was spent at the home of Mrs. Ketterhagen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Jones, of Salsersville. The visitors took nearly two hundred scenes on their way here—mostly in Morgan, Magoffin and Breathitt Counties. On their return trip they visited the Mammoth Cave and several interesting points in Southern, Kentucky. Leaving West Liberty Friday morning they arrived in Burlington, Wisconsin at 8:00 o'clock Saturday night.

MOSTLY PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Sebastian and son, Don, visited relatives in town over the week end.

O. B. Arnett and daughters, Betty Jean and Janice, of Frankfort, were visitors in town last week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Bascom Elam and little granddaughter, Ilene, of Flatwoods spent the day Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Brong.

Miss Ann Cottle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. N. Cottle, who has been employed at Louisville several years, was recently married to M. D. Watts and is at home at 1815 Rosewood Avenue. Her many friends will be glad to join us in wishing them a happy life together.

N. C. Gullett took his mother, Mrs. A. P. Gullett, and brothers, Ralph and Charles, to Eminence, Tuesday. Mr. Gullett returned home but Mrs. Gullett's mother, Mrs. S. J. Day, of Eminence accompanied the others to Oklahoma to visit relatives at Davenport and other places in the state.

Captain and Mrs. Claude F. Shouse and little daughter, Mary Edith, of Wheeling, W. Va., are spending the week here with Mrs. Shouse's mother, Mrs. J. D. Lykins, and daughter, Anna Ruth. They are just from Lake Herrington where the Shouse family had a cottage at Lane's Camp. The party was Rev. and Mrs. H. M. Shouse of Danville and all their children and grandchildren. They were the above named son and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Shouse and Paul Shouse of Washington, D. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Francis Shouse and son, Richard, of Knoxville, Tennessee. Have Deftest Toes

Tribesmen and tribeswomen who live deep in the Malay jungle, have perhaps the deftest toes in the world. The Malay shoes are provided with a knob upon a stem, and around this the Malay girl must wrap her toes if she is to keep her sandals on. In other words, to remain shod at all, she must walk partly on the side of her foot.

Fruits Exude Acid Gas

As citrus fruits, particularly oranges, exude a form of acid gas that is quite harmful to bananas, it is difficult to transport these two kinds of fruit successfully in the same ship at one time. Therefore, says Collier's Weekly, bananas are almost always shipped on "banana boats," which rarely carry any other cargo.

Cities Have Grown

Cities of the Old World have grown big within the last century. Duisburg-Hamborn, on the Rhine, a great German steel center with a population of nearly half a million, was a village of only 1,000 souls less than a century ago.

FINE TRIP FOR BOYS

Charles Ray Wells, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Wells, who delivers the Courier Journal and Louisville Times was the first boy in our county to get his quota of twenty-five new subscribers and earned the promised five day trip to Canada.

There are three hundred, twenty-five boys with twelve or fifteen Territory Managers, taking this trip. They left their homes Tuesday. Those of this vicinity met at Winchester, there met those from other counties at Cincinnati, Ohio.

The boys travel by bus, rail road and steam ship, going first to Detroit, see the Niagara Falls, stop in Buffalo, cruise in the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence River and see Canada.

The trip will be an education in itself and we are sure each one will get a great deal of pleasure out of it.

TO DEVELOP SCHOOL SPIRIT

Before considering how to develop school spirit, let us think for a few brief moments, "What is school spirit?" One great educator has said that school spirit is that spark that keeps the school flame going and that it is made up of four very important ingredients.

A unified and social teaching staff. Proper school spirit then begins with the teacher. If teachers cannot live and work together in harmonious personal relations and unity of aim, there is little hope of cementing into solidly the less responsible parts of the educational structure. In entering any school system the first task of the superintendent or principal should be to face the problem of getting his teachers bound together in feeling, program, and cooperative effort. The open sesame to good will is sociability.

The second essential of good school spirit is an attitude of fellowship and good will among pupils. Again we get the idea of teamwork. Just as superintendent and teacher must work together, so must there be cooperation among pupils. No element of school experience brings greater joy to the child than his self-expression through teamwork and no greater spur to ambition can be provided than the thrill that comes from membership and service in a high voltage school allegiance.

The third ingredient of school spirit is an attitude of mutual confidence and good will between teachers and students. There may be a temporary appearance of esprit de corps among teachers and pupils where there is a wide gap between teachers and pupils, but it is not likely to last long and can never develop into morale. A genuine school spirit must be compounded of both faculty and student ingredients. It takes an infusion of both to make a school activity successful.

Thus far we have mentioned three ingredients, all of which are within the bounded walls of our schoolroom but if our school spirit is to keep alive and kindle a true flame it must reach beyond the narrow limit of a four walled school building, it must reach to the uttermost parts of the community it serves so the fourth and final ingredient is a hearty community interest, and I say with frankness that I think the majority of our schools fail to add this ingredient to the mixture of school spirit. It is difficult for any school system to rise very far above the level of the community it serves. If teachers are good citizens, and are careful to cultivate community support for school enterprises, a real community school spirit may be developed.

Mutuality is the price of effective service in all of the relations of life, and a good community attitude within the school and a good school attitude within the community encourage and uplift each other.

Now that we have carefully analyzed the ingredients of school spirit let us consider some of the many methods of building up school spirit. No one school can use all methods equally well. Communities differ, pupils groups differ, and the personality of teachers differ. Hence methods that will succeed at one time and place may fail at others. Ambitious teachers, therefore, should familiarize themselves with all available methods, make a careful study of local situations and first try out the ones that promise the best results. On the basis of one success others may be built, and gradually the whole school and community spirit may be transformed. While there are many expedients that may be utilized, one fundamental principle characterizes them all and runs like a golden thread through the whole fabric of school spirit. That principle is the old and familiar one of individual self-sacrifice for the welfare of the group. "Where one's treasure is, there will his heart be also." If all concerned—teachers, pupils, and patrons—can be led to give liberally of time, effort and pride to the service of the school, they will learn to love it, be loyal to it, and sacrifice for it. Teachers must learn to give themselves without stint and ask unsparingly of others if they are to create dynamic school spirit.

Successful practice has elevated five specific methods for the cultivation of school spirit and I shall discuss each of them very briefly. First make the school environment as inviting as possible. On the average, public school buildings are the most attractive architectural structures to be found in a community but equal attention has not been paid to the selection of the school site and to the adornment of the school yards and grounds. While the teaching staff has only a limited share in choosing the site and in controlling the design, it may largely control the landscaping and care of the grounds. All children have some appreciation of the beautiful and many of them have little opportunity to exercise it in the drab surroundings of their own homes, so let us do our best to make this daily workshop of our children so attractive so that the six hours that they spend in it daily may be spent in pleasure and usefulness and in order that they may carry home from it each day a message of its comfort and coziness. If the building invites the pupils they in turn will invite their parents.

The second specific method of cultivating school spirit consists in the promotion of all school enterprises. Most important of these is the democratization and exaltation of the assembly period. The old type of formal chapel exercise has been abandoned. In its place in most progressive schools has grown up some sort of assembly in which all-school spirit is given free expression. Certain periods may be given over to programs prepared by different classes and school organizations, or to entertainments given by outside or civis clubs. Special talks by faculty members, ministers, business or professional men, and visiting celebrities may have a socializing effect in molding or developing school spirit. "Pep" meetings before athletic games or other competitive games will also help but we must face the fact that detailed attention and careful planning is necessary.

Another type of all-school enterprise is the school festival such as May Day or Commencement festival. These have their merit and often help to develop school spirit. In a similar way parades, school affairs and drives for school improvement do much to create a school spirit within an entire community. I feel sure that all of you will agree that not only did our school fair create a genuine school spirit in each school district but also in the county at large. Pageants and school plays likewise promote cooperation and nourish school traditions. The school songs and yells also have their place in developing school spirit. The school that can originate an effective rallying call to its struggling hosts in the form of a penetrating and suggestive yell, or a school song that stirs the zeal of pupil, teacher, and patron, has created a mighty tool for socialization.

A third specific method of stimulating school spirit is the encouragement of a wide variety of group activities. The interests of pupils are as broad and specialized as those of adults. The desires naturally lead them together into groups. The fourth and last method of building up school spirit is through the organization of a Parent Teachers Association. By means of an organization of this type parents and teachers are brought together to consider problems in which they are mutually interested. Through a frank discussion of the educational welfare of children many parents are led to an interest in, and hearty support of, the needs of the schools. Parents may aid greatly in stimulating the loyalty and good will of their children toward the school as a whole. An effective Parent Teacher's Association may serve as a nucleus for obtaining community support of school enterprises and aid in fostering general community spirit.

HANEY AGAIN HONORED

The people of Morgan County are again proud of the educational activities and professional record of their county superintendent, Ova O. Haney. Mr. Haney is not only active in the school affairs of his own county but is exerting a wonderful influence over the state educational activities. Mr. Haney has for the past year served as President of the Eastern Kentucky Education Association. A few short weeks ago he was assigned an important part on a Superintendent's Program at Bowling Green, Kentucky and last week he was appointed President of the Kentucky Education Association.

We are proud of Mr. Haney's outside recognition as an educational leader.

FOUR SCHOOL BUSES

The Morgan County Board of Education sometime ago announced in the Licking Valley Courier that bids for the school buses would be accepted at the County Superintendent's office and those who desired to bid may inquire at the superintendent's office concerning same. The Morgan County Board of Education decided that it would be better to operate four school buses rather than two in order that the children may leave home later in the morning and get home earlier in the afternoon. The lowest bidder on route No. 1 from Woodbend to West Liberty was Russell Hale of Malone, Kentucky. The lowest bidder on route No. 2 from Adele to West Liberty was Mr. J. C. Wells of Cannel City, Kentucky. On route No. 3 from Magoffin County line to West Liberty was Norman Sheets of West Liberty, Kentucky. Route No. 4 from Elliott County line to West Liberty was let to J. C. Wells. All equipment and drivers must meet the rules and regulations of the Morgan County Board of Education. Records indicate that there will be an over flow of high school children at West Liberty and Cannel City. Any of the boys and girls who because of adverse circumstances have been unable to pay board and room to stay at either of the high schools will now have the opportunity to jump on a bus and ride to school, with little expense. Due to the fact that the board of education found it necessary to extend the transportation system it will be necessary for them to charge a nominal sum for transportation which may be around 1/4c to 1/2c per mile. The schedule has not yet been completed or approved by the board of education. All over the county there seems to be a considerable increase in attendance and enrollment. The National Youth Administration will be able in many instances to help those pay their way who cannot pay their expenses. The NYA aid is available only to those who have reached their sixteenth birthday. The high school principals will have charge of the distribution of this aid in each of the particular high schools. The board of education recommends to the principals that they exercise the highest degree of care in order that those who need this aid may get it, especially those who have to pay transportation.

Rules and Regulations

Regarding the School Buses After the bus and its equipment has been accepted by the Board a $250.00 bond, preferably a surety bond or other bond that will satisfy the Board of Education, must be furnished by the contractor. Said bond to be forfeited in the event the bidder fails to complete his contract or in any way fails to live up to the rules and regulations governing the operation of his bus. No transfer of this contract can be made without consent of the Board.

The Board reserves the right to terminate any contract if its regulations are not strictly complied with in full. The action of the Board in this regard shall be final.

Standards for Bus Equipment

The chassis, motor and body must be in good condition. The chassis shall have a load capacity of not less than one and one-half ton.

The brakes, head lights, tail lights, wind shield wiper, horn, speedometer, steering apparatus and tires must be kept in good condition at all times. A spare tire shall be kept ready for use at all times.

The bus body must be factory built with sufficient seating capacity to care for the route for which the bus is offered. Bus must be equipped as follows:

a. Seats must be comfortable and must be securely fastened to the body.

b. Must have an emergency door in the rear conspicuously marked on the inside.

c. A fire extinguisher must be carried within easy reach of the driver. It must be checked regularly.

d. Heaters sufficient to heat the bus comfortably in cold weather must be installed. If an exhaust heater is used it must be approved by the Board.

e. The bus shall be painted a "gold-orange."

f. The lettering on the body shall be "Morgan County Schools," on the sides and "school bus" on the front and rear. This last to be in lettering not less than five inches high, in black paint. No other sign except the regulations stop signs shall be carried on these buses.

g. The service door shall be in the front part of the body on the right side. It should be secure and opened only by the driver.

h. Steps from the bus should be securely fastened and safe.

i. A driver controlled stop arm should be installed so the driver may properly signal all stops.

The bus shall be carefully inspected by competent mechanic (who shall be selected by the board) for mechanical defects on any portion of the bus. A signed report shall be filed with the Superintendent on a form supplied by the Board each month.

The bus must be presented for inspection by the Board at any time they deem it necessary, and in any case not more than thirty days after the bid has been accepted.

Any regulations of the State Board of Education or by the laws of the Commonwealth of Kentucky must be met in addition to these provisions.

Rules for Owners and Drivers The buses must be operated according to a schedule prepared by the Board of Education.

The owner must carry ten thousand dollars public liability and property damage insurance during the term of the contract.

The bus may not be used on school days for purposes other than those included in the contract, or at any time that interferes any way with the carrying out of the contract in any way.

Drivers shall file with the Superintendent a monthly report on forms supplied by the Board.

Any driver, other than the owner, shall be approved by the Board before being allowed to operate bus.

The use of intoxicating liquors by the driver is expressly prohibited and if he is proven to be intoxicated either on or off duty another driver must be provided if the Board requests it.

The name of the driver and his license must be posted in a conspicuous place at the front of the bus.

The driver shall be responsible for the conduct of all persons riding his bus. They will not mete out punishment but shall report cases of misconduct to the principal of the school. The driver should insist that all children remain seated while the bus is moving and should not allow loud talking or other unnecessary noises on the bus.

The driver shall not be required to wait more than three minutes for tardy pupils. Cases of habitual tardiness shall be reported to the principal.

The driver should supply the principal with a list of the pupils assigned to his bus and number of miles each rides.

The driver shall be responsible for notifying parents of the schedule on which the bus will be operated.

Buses will be paid for straight time for nine months and will be expected to transport all pupils from the schools served by them to any school activity in Morgan County in which that school is to take part, such as Morgan County Fair, Spelling Bee, District Meetings, Demonstrations. However if the number of these events exceed the number of days on which regular runs are not made, the driver shall be paid by the Board at a rate of ten cents per mile for all extra trips. This does not include transportation of athletic teams.

School buses are to make any extra trips requested by school authorities for school activities except as above provided at the rate of 9c per mile.

Each driver shall be required to report to the principal when his morning run has been completed and to report to the principal before beginning the afternoon run.

SOME OLDER MANNERS

Mrs. Emily Post knows a lot about manners, but she would be puzzled if she ran into remnants of former manners that so many of us remember. She would probably think them bad manners, just as so many people misinterpret left-overs in speech. Good manners are good manners still, however much out of style they appear. Even Mrs. Post says that good manners are nothing more than kindness interpreted by means of words and acts. Nothing could have been kinder than the old-time gentlemen and ladies with their rather stiff, and now outgrown, ways of making social life endurable.

In my youth we were told to remove our hats just as we entered the church door. The old-timers of the community, with a dignity that I cannot possibly make you realize, used to keep their hats on until they got to their places in the Amen corner and were sitting down. Then they pulled off their hats with a reverence and dignity that were certainly admirable as we showed at the church door. Mother told me that this was the approved custom in her younger days. We children laughed at a superior laugh at the old fellows after we had learned how to remove our hats according to the new style.

But none of us has acquired any more real manners than those bearded patriarchs showed at the little country church. When the fireplace was the center of our little social world, even the rudest children knew that they should ask to be excused when it seemed necessary to walk between people and the fire. A violation of this was regarded as very crude. Our mothers would hold up as horrible examples some children who did not know enough or care enough to ask to be excused for such a rude act. When the company left, there would be a reckoning, and woe to the little fellow who did not know his manners. Now, when we have no immediate center of social life in the modern house, when it is not necessary to sit at a given place to keep from freezing, what should children be taught? So long as they do not step on our favorite corners, we pay little attention to where or when they walk.

Aber's "Yes, Ma'am," heard nearly every day over the radio, is not so funny to some of us as to others. We were taught to say it as religiously as any little Frenchman says "Oui, Madame," or "Mademoiselle," or "Monsieur." Sometimes it degenerated into "m" only. Not to say "Yes, sir" and "Yes, ma'am" was to be ill-bred, almost to the point of insolence. I saw a small girl get a severe whipping at school because she said only "Yes" to the teacher. Both she and the teacher knew this was meant for permissiveness. We very proper and polite little rough-necks felt dreadfully pious when the punishment was being meted out, much as the early Calvinists pictured the saints in heaven as looking as pleased as the cat that ate the canary while a just and merciful Divinity was roasting some of their immediate relatives in another part of the hereafter. Just before the World War there had grown up a sort of hostility to "Sir" and "Ma'am" but military discipline brought back "Sir," and it would be ungentle to single out only gentlemen for special marks of dignity. Thus a cycle has been rounded out, and we, like Sir Roger de Coverly—Kentucky Folklore Series.

WAR CLOUDS

Only a few months ago the war clouds seemed to cast a dim shadow on the world at large. Millions of people were excited about the situation, newspapers carried glaring headlines, news commentators told thrilling stories of the two mad dictators who were undoubtedly waging war on the world. Finally a small country that many people never heard of, apparently put to an end the mad rush for a world empire. Many may wonder now what a small nation as the Czechs could wield such a powerful hand. Now we know many things that we didn't know when the war temperature was so high. For example, we know now that another Germany not only is financially able to carry on a war and there is no country that can lend them money, that will. So when Germany threatened to march in and take the Czech's territory and the Czechs firmly declared that they would fight to the finish, what else was there left for Hitler and Mussolini to do but to back down. There seems to be a new fear starting because the German Army is planting her artillery along the Austrian border and training them on the Czech nation. In my opinion we need not get excited because Hitler hopes that democratic nations might agree to some of his demands rather than go to war.

There is a great deal of anticipation as to what the outcome will be. The question is, will Japan back down or will she undertake to fight the mighty Russia. Some say that she will back down and change her world tactics from aggression to a peaceful attitude. Others have the opinion that she may attempt to carry on the two wars because the government is being run by the Army and the Army leaders think they can conquer the world. In my opinion, she realizes that her present fight is leading her to bankruptcy.

I wonder what has turned the tide of the Spanish Civil War. I wonder if Hitler and Mussolini have removed their soldiers from General Franco's Army or have nations that are friendly to the Loyalists sent aid to them?

The United States, Britain, and France have got up their sleeves and plan by which they think that the whole difficulty may be agreed upon and there will be peace for many decades to come. Let's hope that this is more effective than the "League of Nations," the "World Court" and several more of their united failures.
